BEFORE YOU DECIDE

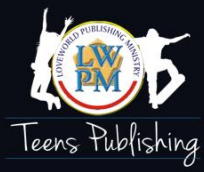

"Your ears shall hear a word behind you, saying, "This is the way, walk in it,"..." – Isaiah 30:21

Life is a series of decisions—some small, others monumental. And in this generation, young people are faced with more voices than ever before: trends, opinions, expectations, fears, and desires all pulling at the soul. But there's one voice that never misleads. One voice that knows your future because He wrote it—the voice of the Holy Spirit.

Before you decide what matters, what path to follow, or who to become—listen. He speaks.

The Holy Spirit is not distant or silent. He was sent to live in you, to walk with you, to guide you from within. Jesus said, "When He, the Spirit of truth, is come, He will guide you into all truth..." (John 16:13). He doesn't shout above the noise; He leads with peace, wisdom, and divine insight. He's the voice of clarity in a world of confusion.

Many young people live impulsively—choosing relationships, habits, careers, and beliefs without the Spirit's leading. But the life in Christ is a higher life: it's a walk of precision, of purpose, of
